

Blog design as a form of reality programming

 devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20051102-49

November 2, 2005

Raymond Chen

On one of our internal blogging aliases, some people were interested in ways of making their blog look spiffier, and the Max team's blog was pointed out as an example of a "pimped out blog". This in turn led to exchange of tips and tricks and someone even proposed an informal Pimp My Blog contest. What next? Extreme Blog Makeover? Trading MSN Spaces?

Raymond Chen

Follow

