

I wonder if the Queen of England ever pulls this sort of prank in real life

 devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20130617-01

June 17, 2013

Raymond Chen

I dreamed that I was playing doubles tennis. My partner was Boris Becker. Our opponents were the Queen of England and a policeman on a horse. The horse served his horseshoe, which I returned poorly. As the horseshoe bounced across the ground, it made huge divots. The game was called due to poor ground conditions.

The Queen played a game with the crowd by pretending to sit down (allowing everybody to sit), then faking them out and standing (making everybody stand up again).

Raymond Chen

Follow

