

If you had to deal with preschoolers all day, you'd need a nap too

 devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20130902-01

September 2, 2013

Raymond Chen

Today, I'm turning it around: This is a dream that one of my friends had about me!

She dreamed that she took her camera to school to take some pictures, possibly for the yearbook. She was somewhat surprised to discover that I was the new preschool teacher. When she popped in to my classroom to get a couple of pictures of me, she wasn't able to take any: Apparently, my new position was so exhausting that I'd had to take a nap on the king-size classroom bed...

Raymond Chen

Follow

