

The alphabet, in alphabetical order, in various languages devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20180529-01

May 29, 2018

Raymond Chen

English	Deutsch	Svenska	Español	Français	Italiano	Pinyin aitch	ah	a	a	a	a	a are	beh	be	be	ache	acca	be ay	ceh	de	ce	bé	bi	ce bee	deh	dubbel-ve	(che)	cé	cappa	de cue	eff	e	cu	dé	ci	e dee	eh	eff	de	double vé	cu	fe double-you	ehr	eks	e	e	di	ge ee	ell	ell	efe	e	e	he eff	em	em	ele	effe	effe	ia ell	en	en	(elle)	elle	elle	ji em	ess	ess	eme	emme	emme	ke en	esszet	ge	ene	enne	enne	le ess	fau	hå	eñe	erre	erre	me ex	geh	i	equis	esse	esse	ne eye	ha	ji	ere	gé	gi	o gee	ie	ku	ese	i grec	i	pe jay	iks	kå	ge	ixe	i greca	qi kay	jot	o	hache	ji	i lunga	ri oh	ka	pe	i	ka	ics	si pee	kuh	se	(i griega)	o	o	te see	oh	säta	jota	pé	pi	wa tea	peh	te	ka	qu	ti	wu vee	the	u	o	té	u	xi
why	u	ve	pe	u	vi	yi
you	weh	y	te	vé	vi doppia	yü zee/zed	ypsilon	å	u	zède	zeta	ze zet	ä	uve
		är	uve doble
		ö	ye zeta

The alphabet, in alphabetical order

The first onstage round of the Scripps National Spelling Bee takes place today. Best of luck to all entrants!

Bonus chatter: For many years, the Scripps National Spelling Bee FAQ, did not include the question “When does the spelling bee take place?”¹ As a result, every year, I have to guess when it’s going to take place, and every year I guess wrong and have to push this entry out another year, hoping to guess better next time. For 2017, I submitted a media request, and they told me that the 2017 finals would be on May 30, 31 and June 1. But then I mis-filed this blog entry, and I didn’t find it until after the spelling bee had taken place. I guess in 2018 they got tired of answering the question, so they added it to their FAQ.

¹ Or maybe nobody asked that question before 2017.

Raymond Chen

Follow

