

Saying good-bye to the original Microsoft Redmond campus

 devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20181113-00

November 13, 2018

Raymond Chen

The end is near for the original Microsoft Redmond campus. The nine buildings that formed the original campus are slated for demolition to make way for a new campus redesign. The buildings are making a final farewell tour this month, and last week, former Microsoft employees were invited back for one last hurrah in Building 2.

Not mentioned in the article is a sign posted in the front door of the building:

Building Closed

Access Restricted

What's Happening

This building is being prepared and made safe for demolition.

What this means to you.

You will no longer get lost trying to find the conference rooms.

Need help?

We appreciate your understanding and cooperation during this work. If you left any belongings or articles behind and wish to retrieve them please contact xxxxxx.

Raymond Chen

Follow

